Headline:
Cloudy with isolated mist and fog patches overnight.

This Evening and Tonight:
A fair amount of cloud through the evening and overnight, with a few clear spells. The risk of isolated mist and fog patches under any more prolonged clear intervals. Some patchy rain moving into northern areas later in the night. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Friday:
Remaining rather cloudy, with occasional light rain, especially further north and east. Somewhat cooler than recent days across the north of the region but staying mild in the south. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
A cool start to Saturday where skies are clear, but steadily turning cloudier and milder again. Variable amounts of cloud on Sunday, then more unsettled and breezier next week.
